

Narration - “High Sea Robbery”

Never-Never Land was quite a place. Peter Pan had told Wendy about the Lost Boys, mentioning the possibility that she could come and be their mother, but he hadn't said very much about a pirate ship that lay at anchor not far from shore, or about the pirate leader, the fierce and blustery Captain Hook.

Sometimes the sound coming off the deck of the pirate ship was just as fierce and blustery as the Captain himself, and the voices of the pirates, echoing off the waters of the bay, could be heard up and down the coast of the mysterious island.