Peter Pan

(An adaptation of the story written by J. M. Barrie.)

“Midnight Snack”

Script Excerpt and Song

Captain Hook

Now, men, tonight is the night.

Pirates

Aye, aye, Captain.

Captain Hook

Sleep while you can, for at midnight
we attack the Indians.

Pirates

Ooooooh.

Captain Hook

Now... get your rest.

Narrator 2

Each man found his spot on the beach, and one by one they drifted off to sleep; all except Captain Hook, who kept sitting up every couple of minutes and looking around anxiously.

Smee

What's the matter, Captain?
Something bothering you?

Captain Hook

Arrrrrrr.

Threads

You need rest too, you know. You'll want to be at your best form when we attack at midnight.

Captain Hook

I can't sleep.

Smee

Something's on your mind.
Tell me, what is it?

Song #12 - Midnight Snack

Captain Hook

*There's a clock in the "croc" and that's what's been bothering me
How can I sleep when I know he's out ticking and a-tocking and looking for me
It was Pan—Peter Pan*

*cut off me arm and he flipped it to the "croc" who's become real fond of me
And I don't want to be a midnight snack
for a crocodile
Ahhhhhh.... Oh, Smee
What can I do? What can I do?*

Smee

*Listen, Captain, I'm telling you clear
You got no reason, no reason to fear
He swallowed a clock and it makes a sound*

Captain Hook

Smee, what happens when the clock runs down?

Smee

That will be a problem!

Captain Hook

*Ohhhhhh.... I don't like it, Smee. I don't like it.
Can't you see him...
Slithering and sliding all over the place
With a big toothy smile on his big green face
I don't want to be a midnight snack
That would be worse than an asthma attack*

Smee

Captain, you are looking kind of green.

Captain Hook

Am I? Ahhhhhh....

*I was doing real fine—I had a boat and a vagabond crew
And I was sailing the seas but now look what the Pirate life does to you I got a hook for a hand and the rest is history
He had a bite—now he wants the rest of me
And I don't want to be a midnight snack
for a crocodile
Ahhhhhhh.... Oh, Smee
What can I do? What can I do?*

Smee

*Listen, Captain, stay cool and calm
You're thinking of the "croc" like a ticking bomb
Don't worry, every hour he emits a chime*

Captain Hook

Smee, what happens when he's out of time?

Smee

That will be a problem!

Captain Hook

*Ohhhhhh.... I don't like it, Smee. I don't like it
Can't you see him...
Slithering and sliding all over the place
With a big toothy smile on his big green face
I don't want to be a midnight snack
That would be worse than when sciatica comes back*

Smee

Captain, you've got to stop talking like that.

Captain Hook

I know. I can feel the pain already.

Smee

May I make a suggestion?

Captain Hook
(dryly) What?

Smee

Think... lovely... things!

All Pirates

(long pause) Arrrrr.

Captain Hook

The thing I fear most is right now when victory's mine

That "croc" will appear and I'll become a snack of the midnight kind

*Think of it, Smee, how they'd all make fun of me
And I'd be part of the "croc's" "gastronomy"
I don't want to be a midnight snack*

Captain Hook and Pirates

No!

Captain Hook

I don't want to be a midnight snack

Captain Hook and Pirates

No, No!

*I don't want to be a midnight snack!
Ohhhhh... that's what's been bothering
That's what's been bothering me!!*
